At 101, the Baroness de Coubertin
undergoes an operation

A few days after attending the celebration of her hundred and one years, a fact related in our last Bulletin, Baroness Pierre de Coubertin underwent an operation for hernia. This surgical interference was so successful that, four days later, Baroness de Coubertin was walking up and down the drawing-room of the nursing home where she had been sent in emergency. She has now completely recovered and is feeling fit thanks to her morning physical training, she told us. She practised these exercises all her life and proceeded to give us a practical demonstration... Our very best wishes are always with her.
