E Several days apart, at the beginning of this April, three exceptional personalities - one active member and two honorary members of the International Olympic Committee - departed. They were General José de J. CLARK (Mexico) who died on April 18th, General Pahud de MORTANGES (Netherlands) whose death occurred on April 7th and Mr. Armand MASSARD (France) who passed away on the night of April 9th.

In different ways, they each made a great impression not only on the life of the International Olympic Committee but also on that of world sport.

To their families and their friends, the International Olympic Committee offers its very sincere condolences.
