THE BEAUTY OF SPORT, by Benjamin Lowe. Published by Prentice-Hall Inc., Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey 07632 (USA). 1977, 327 pages, in English.

Here is a new way of looking at and participating in sport, that is from an aesthetic point of view both as a spectator and a practising sportsman.

Whilst discussing different disciplines for approaching and studying the beauty of sport, this work never demands a highly specialised knowledge of any of these disciplines.

OLYMPIABOKEN 1976 (Olympic Book 1976), official work of the Swedish Olympic Committee, compiled under the direction of Sven-Ulf Pettersson. Published by Brunnhages Försäljnings AB, Upplandsgatan 22, 113 60 Stockholm (SWE). 1976, 304 pages, in Swedish.

Commencing with an interview of Lord Killanin by the well-known Swedish sports journalist Sven Ekström, this richly illustrated souvenir book recalls the 1976 « epic » of Swedish athletes and their remarkable harvest of Olympic successes both at Innsbruck and Montreal. A complete statistical section is included to satisfy the lovers of precise details and figures.

ARCHERY FOR BEGINNERS, by John C. Williams. Published by Henry Regnery Company, 180 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60601 (USA). 1976, 196 pages, in English. Price: $4.95.

The first Olympic champion in this sport upon its reintroduction to the programme of the 1972 Olympic Games and holder of all the FITA world records at that time, in this book John C. Williams attempts to help beginners discover archery, giving them basic advice on equipment, preparation of the shot, taking aim, the position of the body and the different ways of practising this sport.

BULGARIA AT THE OLYMPIC GAMES by Hristo Meranzov, Nikolai Georgiev, Lindmil Milanoo and Kliment Velichkov; editor-in-chief: Nadia Lekarska. Published by Medicina i Fizcultura, Sofia (BUL). 1976, 256 pages, in English.

This book retraces in detail the history of Bulgaria's participation in the Olympic Games since their renovation in 1896 to the present day. In addition to the very full results tables of the Olympic Games the authors briefly introduce us to all the Bulgarian holders of an Olympic gold, silver or bronze medal and include some very interesting statistical tables.

SPORT BELGE 1976 (Belgian Sport 1976), by Jean Duriau. Published by Arts et Voyages, Brussels (BEL). 1976, 96 pages, in French.

1976 was a good year for Belgian sport, which gained many successes on the world sports scene, and particularly at Montreal. For the first time, "Sport Belge" draws up a balance-sheet of these performances, emphasising the Belgian sportsmen's exploits by numerous photographs, for the most part previously unpublished.

DESPORTO ET REVOLUCAO, UNA POLITICA DESPORTIVA (Sport and revolution, a sports policy) by Melo de Carvalho. Published by Ministerio da Educacao e Investigacao Cientifica, Secretaria de Estado dos Desportos e Accao Social Escolar, Edicao do Centro de Documentacao e Informacao, Lisbon (Portugal). 1976, 312 pages, in Portuguese.

Aimed at stimulating and promoting the practice of sport in Portugal, this work presents the detailed plan and objectives drawn up by the Portuguese Sports Secretariat. All sectors of sport are considered and the sports structure it intends to establish at different levels of the country is described in detail.

TRACK AND FIELD OMNIBOOK, by J. Kenneth Doherty. Published by Tafnews Press, PO Box 296, Los Altos, California 94022 (USA). 1976, 514 pages, innumerable sketches and diagrams, in English. Price: US$ 12.

Former decathlete and athletics coach, Ken Doherty is probably one of the most well-known American authors in the field of athletics. This second revised and updated edition of his major work has been enriched by a great many studies and the presentation of new techniques. It will undoubtedly constitute the reference book of a large number of sports students in the United States.
