

The Olympic tradition continues...

Since its first telecast of the Winter Games from Innsbruck in 1964, ABC Sports has been recognized for creativity, innovation and technical excellence in its role as the American Network of the Olympics.

In 1984, this reputation will grow with unprecedented coverage of the Winter Games at Sarajevo and the Summer Games at Los Angeles, where ABC will serve as host coordinating broadcaster for the XXIII Olympiad.

We look forward more than ever to continuing the great tradition of ABC and the Olympic Games in 1984.

forces in

olympic competition recorded for the first time during the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles

KISTLER force plates measure not only the 3 components (vertical and 2 directions horizontal) of a force exerted by an athlete on the ground but allow to determine the location of the point of force application as well as torque loading of the leg. These force plates use quartz as ultra stable sensing elements and more than 400 units are used at leading institutions in over 32 countries around the world.

The International Olympic Association for Research in Sports Medicine has now selected KISTLER instruments for use at the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles. A set of special force plates will be installed under the platform for weightlifting and the forces recorded during competition. For the first time in the history of sports-biomechanics such force recordings will become available for scientific analysis.

Besides weightlifting KISTLER force plates for other disciplines are also under consideration.
