

NEW-LOOK REVIEW

The Olympic Review kicks off the new Olympiad with a new image. Its larger format is easier on the eye and designed to allow plenty of space for photos, the most effective way of getting sport across today.

We hope readers like the new look. The Review will lay the emphasis on news, which is continually growing both in sheer bulk and importance.

Also a chronicle for reference, it will carry on dealing with all the subjects that concern the Olympic Movement, providing a forum for debate and viewpoints which deepen understanding of the sports movement and its contemporary development.

This Review, do not forget, is yours. The sections giving news of the Ifs and NOCs are based on the information that you send in. In these lines, like a series of postcards from around the globe, beats the heart of our whole movement.