

LUXEMBOURG

On the initiative of the Luxembourg NOC, a scientific study entitled Jugend und Sportliche Aktivität (Young people and sports activity) has just been published. The authors, Georges Steffgen, psychologist and member of the NOC medical commission, and Peter Schwenkmezger, a professor at the university of Trier, in Germany, performed a study among Luxembourg adolescents on the subject of sports activity. The themes covered include level of sports involvement, social context, family background, motivation, emotions and attitudes of these young people toward sport.
