

FOREIGN NOTES

We have made arrangements with one of the ablest writers on golf in the United Kingdom to act as our special correspondent, and, beginning with the December issue, a series of contributions will appear under this head. It is purposed to give a graphic description of each of the various championship courses in England and Scotland, supplemented by illustrations; and also descriptions of the more famous golf links in the United Kingdom, as well as regular items of news relating to current events. The whole subject will be treated in a manner differently to anything ever attempted before and will, we feel sure, give our readers a very clear and intelligent idea of the essential features of the various foreign courses.
