

Tim Hurst

Tim Hurst has retired from the field as an umpire for good, apparently. Many are the stories told of Tim's experiences as an indicator holder. The veteran Joe Sugden tells this one. It happened after Tim had hit an abusive fireman with a beer glass some years ago on the Cincinnati ball grounds. "What ails that fireman?" said Tim. "Why, he got a column in the local papers this morning and got his name in all the other papers in the land. Why, he'd never been heard of if I hadn't soaked him with that beer glass. Now he's famous."
