

A Blind Fan

A season pass to a blind man that he may "hear" the Ohio State league baseball games at the local park was the novel presentation that has been made by President Watkins of the club. The recipient of this favor is Prof. Earl C. Houk, vocal director in the Wittenberg College Conservatory of Music. Prof. Houk enjoys "hearing" baseball games. By means of the umpire's calls on strikes and balls, the sounds of the ball hitting the bat, the shout of joy or groans of the crowd and with someone to explain the intricate plays, he follows the game with surprising accuracy.
