

MOTORCYCLE BRINGS PLEASURE

Although Mrs. Margaret Long, of Philadelphia, has been an invalid for seven years, the ingenuity of her husband has made possible her first trip out of doors since she was injured in April, 1905.

C. E. Long, the husband, is a carpenter, and every Sunday since his wife has been disabled he has constructed little devices for her comfort and entertainment. Last summer he developed a water power fan which was placed in the sick room. Now he has perfected a new chassis for his motorcycle, and the family, mother, father and little daughter are going motoring.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES.

Some of the motorcyclists of Newark, N. J., are talking of bidding for the annual F. A. M. Meet this summer. The construction of a new motorcycle track in that city is giving impetus to the suggestion.

Motorcyclists of Lockport, N. Y., recently organized two teams, the "Purples" and "Golds," and by conducting a membership campaign increased the membership from 28 to 87 in three months.

Sometimes motorcyclists turn aviators. Not so with George R. Lynch. He is an aviator who dropped flying to follow riding the two-wheeler. And he says he likes spinning down the thoroughfares better than he did making spiral glides and dips in midair.

Sanctions for race meets at Englewood, Colo., April 14; Dayton, O., April 20 and San Antonio, Tex., April 21, have been granted by Dr. J. P. Thornley, chairman of the Competition Committee of the F. A. M.

The Maryland Motorcycle Club and the Touring Club of Maryland, together with other motorcycle clubs in Baltimore, recently held their first Sunday run to Annapolis. Fifty riders made the trip.

The South Scranton, Pa., Motorcycle Club is arranging to hold races in conjunction with the Scranton Automobile Club this summer.
