

Football Studies

Volume Two Number One April 1999

Contents

Editorial Preface	5
Articles
Rugby and Nationalist Logic in South Africa Douglas Booth, University of Otago	6
Making Sense of Global Patriot Games: Rugby Players' Perceptions of National Identity Politics Jason Tuck and Joseph Maguire King Alfred's College and Loughborough University	26
A Man's Game?: Women Playing Rugby Union in Australia Alison Carle and John Nauright, University of Queensland	55
Learning to be a 'Rugger Man': High School Rugby and Media Constructions of Masculinity in Japan Richard Light, University of Queensland	74
The Economic Effects of the Traditional Transfer System in European Professional Football H. F. Moorhouse, University of Glasgow	90
Viewpoint
The Transformation of 'Community' in the Australian football League. Part Two: Redrawing 'Community' Boundaries in the Post-War AFL Ian Andrews, University of Sydney	106
Book Reviews
Rob Hess & Bob Stewart (Eds), More Than A Game: An Unauthorised History of Australian Rules Football (Ian Andrews)	125
Robin McConnell, Inside the All Blacks. (Malcolm MacLean)	127
John Nauright & Timothy J. L. Chandler (Eds), Making Men: Rugby and Masculine Identity. (Rob Hess)	129
Chris Taylor, The Beautiful Game: A Journey Through Latin American Football. (Braham Dabscheck)	131
Announcements	133