SPORTS FEATURES COMMUNICATIONS MAKES NEWS MONITORING EASY

by Laura Walden

Sports Features Communications has launched the first ever online news indexing service on Olympic sports news at www.sportsfeatures.com. It may not seem like much is happening in a non-Olympic season, but during just the first couple of months of existence we have already logged on thousands of articles from over 650 worldwide published sources and our average is about a hundred daily. All the headlines are hyperlinks to the original news sources and categorized in an easily read, easily navigated site. Our information is totally independent and not censored and we index whatever is in the news sources.

For historians this service is extremely valuable for monitoring information about the Olympic Movement as you will find a whole host of Olympians' stories, information on doping and political issues, updates on the potential changes in the Olympic program, historical features on past Games, many collateral issues linked to future Games, and we even have a section on who is passing on.

Sports Features Communications is very pleased to offer all International Society of Olympic Historian members a special 25% discount on all individual annual subscriptions.
