

Publications Board Report

The Journal of Sport History, with Jack Berryman as editor, has appeared one time since Austin, Texas, and I believe the next issue is at press.

Angela Lumpkin and John Findling, co-editors, published the second edition of the Directory of Scholars this past summer. There was a greater response in this publication than in the first issue. The Board appreciates the editors' work on this project.

Nancy Struna volunteered to be editor of the 1979 Proceedings and did an excellent job. And as always, Ron Smith did an excellent job as "Newsletter" editor.

The Board approved a request from the editor of Eastern Basketball to reprint a book review of The Classic that will appear in The Journal of Sport History. The key stipulation is that credit must be cited that it is reprinted from The Journal of Sport History.

On behalf of the Board, the Chairperson in discussion with Ron Smith approved a request from Steve Riess to use his own article from The Journal of Sport History, without fee, in a book he is writing.

The Board is formulating an operating code for the Publications area and hopes to have it finalized by the conclusion of the Banff Conference.

Respectfully submitted,

In Banff there was always good company and pleasant conversation at the breakfast round tables.
