

NOVEMBER POLL 2002 MLS MVP

The following are the results of socceramerica.com's November Poll in which fans picked their MVP of the 2002 MLS season.

2002 MLS MVP

Carlos Ruiz (Los Angeles)	29%
Taylor Twellman (N.E.)	29%
Landon Donovan (San Jose)	12%
Cobi Jones (Los Angeles)	4%
Steve Ralston (New England)	4%
Wade Barrett (San Jose)	2%
Carlos Bocanegra (Chicago)	2%
Joe Cannon (San Jose)	2%
Jeff Cunningham (Columbus)	2%
Jason Kreis (Dallas)	2%

Chris Klein (Kansas City)	2%
Ante Razov (Chicago)	2%
Carlos Valderrama (Colorado)	2%
Edson Buddle (Columbus)	1%
Mark Chung (Colorado)	1%
Mamadou Diallo (MetroStars)	1%
Chris Henderson (Colorado)	1%
Tim Howard (MetroStars)	1%
Alexi Lalas (Los Angeles)	1%
Steve Morrow (Dallas)	1%
Nick Rimando (D.C. United)	1%

DECEMBER POLL MLS EXPANSION

MLS is again talking about expansion. Here's your chance to weigh in on the expansion issue.

Should MLS expand in 2004? Should MLS consider returning to the state of Florida? Should MLS consider small markets such as Oklahoma City and Tulsa in Oklahoma? If MLS expands, what is the best market for an expansion team? Here are our candidates: Atlanta, Cleveland, Houston, Miami-Ft. Lauderdale, Milwaukee, Minneapolis-St. Paul, New York City, North Carolina, Oklahoma City, Philadelphia, Rochester, San Diego, St. Louis, Seattle, Tampa Bay and Tulsa. Voting runs through Dec. 15.

Log on to socceramerica.com
and make your picks.