

WINCHESTER

MODEL 1905 .32 AND .35 CALIBER SELF-LOADING RIFLES

Standard Rifle 22 inch Round Barrel, Plain Walnut Stock and Forearm, not checked. Weight about 7½ pounds. Number of shots 6. List Price $28.00

THE Winchester Model 1905 Self-Loading Rifle is a hammerless take-down, made in .32 and .35 calibers. It is the first rifle of the Self-Loading type made for center fire ammunition, the cartridges it handles being of the modern smokeless powder type, using metal patched bullets. The .32 caliber shoots a 165-grain bullet and gives a velocity of 1400 foot seconds and a penetration of 1 7/8 inch dry pine boards with a metal patched soft point bullet. The .35 caliber shoots a 180-grain bullet and gives a velocity of 1400 foot seconds and a penetration of 1 3/8 inch dry pine boards with a metal soft point patched bullet. As these figures show, both cartridges give excellent penetration, and with metal patched soft point bullets they have great shocking effect on animal tissue. As its name indicates, this rifle is self-loading. The recoil of the exploded cartridge ejects the empty shell, cocks the hammer and feeds a fresh cartridge from the magazine into the chamber, leaving the rifle ready to be shot upon the operators pulling the trigger. The magazine is of the box type and holds five cartridges. By inserting a cartridge in the chamber before placing the loaded magazine in the gun, the operator has six shots at his disposal. The stock is 14 inches long and finished with a rubber butt-plate; drop at comb 1 3/8 inches; drop at heel, 2 1/4 inches; length of gun over all, 40 inches.

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO.,

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

THE COLUMBUS TOURNAMENT.

R. S. Rhodes Carried Off the Honors For Two Days.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—The opening and dedication of the new clubhouse of the Columbus Gun Club was celebrated by a two-day tournament on October 27 and 28, and was a success in every way. The beautiful grounds and the fine new clubhouse were pronounced by the shooters present to be the finest in the country, and many were the comments and questions as to why the Grand American Handicap would not be held in Columbus.

Forty-five shooters were in attendance and all thoroughly enjoyed themselves and promised to come again whenever a tournament was given. The programme consisted of 200 targets per day. Money divided percentage system, four moneys. The experts were well represented, and gave a good exhibition of how to break targets. Among those present were: R. O. Heikes, Thos. A. Marshall, C. W. Phellis, C. O. LeCompte, D. D. Gross, Ralph Trimble, C. A. Young, Less Reid, T. Davenport and J. C. Williams. The amateurs were present from all over Ohio and gave a good account of themselves.

The shoot was cashiered by Mr. John R. Taylor and assisted by Mr. McNeil. These gentlemen handled things in a very satisfactory manner. R. S. Rhodes, of Columbus, won high general average for both days, breaking 383 out of 400 targets. "Tyron" (Dennis Upson), Cleveland, O., won second general average, with 381 out of 400. C. W. Phellis won third average on 378. C. A. Young fourth on 377. The scores follow:

A Local Target Shoot.

With fine weather, a good crowd faced the traps on November 4, and Rhodes broke straight 25 twice. The scores were good all along the line. Congenial Gross was present and shot a few. The shooting of Winchester, Bassell and Valentine was A1. Master Sims, 12 years old, is a coming shooter. A boys' squad is to be formed soon. Scores:

Return of the Caribou.

Bangor, Me., Nov. 8.—On such good authority as that of Guy C. Haynes, of Norcross, one of the best known guides and hunters in Maine, it is reported that a herd of Caribou is making its headquarters on Mt. Katahdin. The herd was seen Friday, September 29, by Mr. Haynes and a party of campers whom he was guiding. In the herd were a fine yearling bull, two cows and a calf caribou. The animals did not appear to be wild at all and allowed the party to approach near enough to get an excellent view of the animals.

It has been reported at intervals for a long time that a herd of caribou was making its headquarters around Katahdin. The herd has been reported by a number of canoeists who stopped on their way down the West Branch to make the ascent of the grand old mountain, but every story has differed from its predecessor so much that people have been led to believe the existence of the caribou was only a myth. Coming on such good authority as that of Mr. Haynes, who has been in the woods all his life and is considered one of the most reliable guides in the business, the presence of the animals on Katahdin will be taken as a fact.

The news of the sighting of this herd of caribou will be glad tidings to the friends of this animal, which is in some ways the greatest antlered game in America. As the bison has disappeared from the western plains so the caribou have disappeared from the wilds of Maine, though the manner of their disappearance was not the same. In the case of the bison they disappeared because of the war waged on them by the Indians and hide hunters, while the caribou simply left on their own accord.

TRAP AT JACKSONVILLE.

Charlie Spencer Won Another First Average.

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 4.—Charlie Spencer won high average at the Jacksonville shoot arranged and managed by Scott and Groves. The office was looked after by L. A. Cummings. Charlie Spencer won high honors for the two days, breaking 383 out of 400 targets. Lon Fisher, of Hebron, O., was high amateur with 378. Ed. Scott was second with 375. The trade was well represented by Spencer, Vietmeyer, Fitzsimmons, Steinberg, Stannard and Cummings. The scores follow:

Women in Maine Woods.

Bangor, Me., Nov. 8.—The deer hunting season at Kinco, Moosehead Lake, opened most satisfactorily with a large influx of early hunters, conspicuous among which were women, who come to don hunting garb, shoulder rifles and "rough it" with the men, enjoying woods pleasures to the fullest extent.

Of game there is without question more than enough for all, and the wonderfully beautiful days which have been a feature of the first ten days of October are a pleasant prophecy for the balance of the month.

The increasing popularity of the early season is most gratifying, because it shows conclusively that visitors are coming here more and more to enjoy the wood life and less and less to kill, for it is an acknowledged fact that the last two weeks of October or the first two weeks of November offer the best conditions for hunting big game.

A dozen deer were reported killed in this immediate vicinity on the opening day, the best bag being brought in by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Outerbridge, Miss Ethel Outerbridge and Miss A. K. Robinson, of New York City, and included two deer and a dozen grouse.

When the Season Opens.

Bangor, Me., Nov. 8.—Game Warden W. I. Neal, who is on duty this season at Bangor station as in past seasons, states that partridges are not scarce this year in good partridge shooting country any more than they were last year.

"You hear this cry every year," said Mr. Neal, "about hunters going into the woods and not seeing any partridges or woodcock. The trouble is that they do not go where the partridges are. A partridge is not a bird to dwell deep in the woods and that's the reason why, when a man goes into a good deer country, that he does not see birds.

"The partridge is a bird that does not get away from civilization. It is not a bird to live in the thick forests

Another reason is that the leaves are so thick that it is hard work to see them, to say nothing of shooting them. I don't believe they are any more scarce than deer. You will hear people say deer are scarce in Maine, but it is because they do not know how to hunt them or that they have not gone to the right place."

Mr. Neal says everything is looking lovely for a good game season this fall. The receipts thus far have been good for the first week.

"We never get many the first week," said Mr. Neal. "The hunters are just going in and they are not coming out in a day or two. Then again they are not doing much hunting this warm weather. It is better weather to lay around camp and enjoy nature than to tramp through the woods after deer. Another thing is that they know deer will not keep in this warm weather."
