DELAWARE STATE SHOOT

Continued from twenty-seventh page was over and conditions in the afternoon favored high scoring. The program called for 150 targets in the regular events, the last 100 being for the Interstate Association's amateur State championship, the Du Pont State amateur championship, and the Hercules open State championship. All three of these honors went to one man, Alden B. Richardson, the Dover amateur. Richardson outscored every amateur or professional who was eligible for the honors with a tally of 96 out of 100. Second to him for the two amateur championships was W. Edmanson, with 94. In the open championship, Edward Banks was only one target in the rear of Richardson, with a 95. In the last 100 targets Newcomb was high over all with the fine score of 99 out of 100, his eighty-first target being the only miss. As he was not a resident of the State he was ineligible for these honors. On the 150-target program, Newcomb finished with one target more than Richardson, 143 to 142, thus giving the Philadelphia amateur honor for two days. W. S. Behm was next with 141. Lester German was the leading professional again with 147, followed by H. L. Worthington with 145. Scores:

NOTES

In the merchandise event of the second day a squad of women from the Nemours Gun Club competed. Neither Joe Ben McHugh nor John Minnick were shooting up to their usual form, as the scores will show. Stanley Tuchtou, who won the 88 per cent. championship at the Westy Hogans last year, kept well up with this average all through the tourney. Dr. Betts, the president of the Delaware State Sportsmen's Association, though a very busy man, had time to turn in a good score in the State Championship. Both days Jim Skelly made a poor start, but ended the first day with a run of 40 straight and wound up Saturday with 50 straight. Eliminating his early events he would have led them all. George Lyon ran up from the South to fraternize with his many friends in Wilmington. He shot far below his form, but made up for his poor scoring by his genial intercourse with the shooters. On the first day squad No. 7 broke 74 out of 75 in event 10. Those in the squad were William Foord, L. S. German, A. B. Richardson, C. H. Newcomb and Allan Hell. Foord dropped the target. The noted New York sportsman, T. H. Keller, Sr., shot well on the first day and was then called away. Haze Keller, his son, and one of the most popular men in the trade, was also on hand the first day. The two Metropolitan shots, A. W. Church and Durant Church, were among the shots who came along with George Lyon. Among the runs were one of 110 by German, 70 straight by the same shot, 80 by Newcomb, 65 by Richardson.

T. E. Doremus, president of the Du Pont Trap Shooting Club, had reason to be proud of the manner in which the shoot was disposed of. It is not every club that has such a well-trained force that it does not need outside assistance in handling a State championship event.

W. A. Simonton, formerly of San Francisco, Calif., where he was president of the Golden Gate Gun Club, a leading organization of the Coast, was one of the shooters. He is now stationed in Wilmington and will shoot regularly with Du Pont.
