

Notes on Contributors

TARA BRABAZON, a Lecturer in Media Communication and Culture at Murdoch University, has completed postgraduate degrees in history and cultural studies. She has published in the areas of cultural historiography, film, popular cultural studies, tourism and immigration. She is currently finishing a book on 'Tracking the Jack: Rediscovering Britain in the Antipodes'.

BRAHAM DABSCHECK is an Associate Professor in the School of Industrial Relations at the University of New South Wales. He is Editor of The Journal of industrial Relations and the ASSH Bulletin. Dabscheck has published extensively in industrial relations, with a special interest in team sports, and in Sporting Traditions.

ALBERT GRUNDLINGH, who is Professor and Acting Head of the Department of History at the University of South Africa in Pretoria, has written a number of articles on South African historiography and social history. He is the co-author of a book on South African rugby (1995) and has published books on Afrikaner collaborators during the Anglo-Boer War (1979) and South African black people in World War I (1987).

MARNIE HAIG-MUIR, a Lecturer in Economic and Social Studies at Deakin University, has published on several aspects of Australian economic history. Her general research interests, which centre on gender and women's golf in Australia, currently include on the history and implementation of equal opportunity legislation in Victorian golf clubs over the last twenty years.

ROB HESS is a Lecturer in Sports History at Victoria University of Technology and the founding co-editor of the Bulletin of Sport and Culture. He is also the co-editor of More Than a Game: An Unauthorised History of Australian Rules Football, to be published by Melbourne University Press in June 1998.

JOHN LUCAS was a coach, teacher and researcher at Pennsylvania State University from 1962 to 1997 and has published three books and numerous articles. He received the 'Olympic Order' from the International Olympic Committee (IOC) in 1996. He has been the 'Official Lecturer of the IOC' since 1992.